Are you a student or recent graduate who is keen to get essential experience in the creative industries? We are looking for a new post-holder on our yearly paid internship scheme, in the role of Curated Programmes Officer. In this position you will support the operations and logistics of the curated programme, particularly the University of Sheffield Concerts series.

You will be an organised person who is interested in planning, managing projects, and communicating with a range of partners. We are excited to provide a role to develop skills in events logistics and management, particularly as training and development opportunities in this area are difficult to find for those in the early stages of a career in the creative industries.

The Creative Arts Administration Development Scheme (CAADS) fosters paid opportunities for student development of performing arts management and arts administration skills in a demanding, outward facing professional context.

These roles are open to current students, or graduates in the last year. You must have been a student of either the Faculty of Arts and Humanities or Social Sciences at the University of Sheffield.

Interns work as part of a highly skilled team, developing skills in a number of core performing arts management functional areas (marketing, operations, and artistic direction) across a range of projects and outputs. The scheme is a great way to build valuable CV points, and a number of former participants have entered employment in arts organisations throughout the UK.

What previous participants have said about CAADS

“As Concerts Intern I learnt a great deal about what goes into the running of a successful concerts series. It was an invaluable experience that I enjoyed enormously and it ignited a passion within me to make music management my career.”

“During my time as an Intern I have been able to gain an insight into the organisation behind a successful concert series and work with and alongside music professionals. I have been given the opportunity to develop skills in tasks I previously had little experience with and this has increased my confidence a great deal. The internship has been a great platform on which I hope to build professional experience in the future.”
